It is especially requested on the part of County Judges, guardians and friends of this class of patients, to have them properly conveyed to the Asylum, so that they may be properly cared for before the inclement weather sets in.

DR. BAKER'S PAIN PANACEA.

Is composed entirely of healing gums, and vegetable oils and is the best preparation for the most delicate tissues. I can most sincerely say that I have never known any liniment so infallibly to do its work. I will, therefore, ask the afflicted, who have not used it, to try it for the following diseases. If they are not satisfied with the healing properties, the money will be cheerfully returned at the agent where the medicine is for sale.

If you have pain in the stomach or bowels, try a dose of Baker's Pain Panacea internally, bathe externally over the parts affected, and you will at once receive the proper action and relieve the pain.

If you have a Bruise or Wound, bathe it well with the Pain Panacea four times a day. It will relieve the pain, and take out all the poison, and heal the wound in a short time.

If you are suffering from Neuralgia or Rheumatism, Pains, &c., use the Pain Panacea freely, and take a dose of it internally occasionally, morn and night. It will not only cure the pain, but will remove the cause of the disease.

If you have Dyspepsia, and your food distresses your stomach after eating, take a dose of Pain Panacea after each meal.

If you have a Cankered or Sore Mouth or Throat, apply the Pain Panacea four times a day. It will relieve the pain, and take out all the poison, and heal the wound in a short time.

If you have the Diarrhœa, or a relaxed state of the bowels, take a dose of Pain Panacea, and they will soon be restored. If you have a painful swelling, bathe the parts freely with it, and it will relieve pain, and the swelling will subside.

If you have a very tooth ache, apply the Pain Panacea on cotton to the tooth at the same time you take a dose of it internally.

If you have pain in the Breast, Side, Back or Kidneys, take a dose of Pain Panacea internally, and bathe the parts affected with it.

If you have a cold, or pain over your body, apply the Pain Panacea, as well as take it, and you will soon be relieved.

Directions for using the Pain Panacea will be found in a pamphlet around each bottle.

Aspect of Affairs at the East.

Since the commencement of the civil war it has been customary for Union men and Union journals to underrate the advantages claimed by our armies and to magnify the achievements of the Confederates. Expressions which exceed the bounds of just criticism are in vogue. Hasty judgments on the posture of affairs in the East are pronounced and fault is found with the acts of good and true men before the facts in the case are fully developed. The case of Gen Morgan who captured and then abandoned Cumberland Gap, is in point. At first he was condemned for his abandonment of his position and subsequent retreat; but the latest advices show that he displayed the qualities of a great leader in all his acts. Gen Grant, it was reported, had ordered Gen Rosekrans not to pursue the enemy on his retreat from Corinth. It is now known that Gen Grant' orders were to pursue and strike the enemy.

While we are thus frequently misinformed at first, of the state of affairs along the line that divides the hosts of the nation and the Confederate traitors, there is now no cloud of doubt to darken the glorious achievements of the Union armies during the last two months. The tide of conquest which rushed like the waves of ocean on the beach from Mill Spring to Corinth and from the Potomac to the Jones river, culminated in defeat but not in dishonor. Again it has arisen, and all that was lost by vacillation and divided councils has been regained. Besides, many important points on the Southern coast have been reduced to the sway of the old flag. Even during the dark days of August and September the important position of Suffolk, which controls the rebel line of retreat from Richmond was never abandoned. Such is the condition of affairs that, if the rebels win they gain nothing but a strip of territory extending from the Rappahannock to the Potomac. On the other hand, if they lose, their Army of Virginia will be almost annihilated, if the combinations of Burnside are carried out as they have been projected. These appear to consist in a sweeping advance in force, with the Union front extending from the waters of Chesapeake Bay to the Shenandoah, while the rebel retreat by the North Carolina railways and the Richmond and Danville road will be cut off by Gen Foster at Weldon, North Carolina; and by Gen Peck, by a movement westward from Suffolk. The road by Staunton, through Cumberland Gap, would be subject to seizure by the right wing of Burnside's army. The Confederates thus enveloped, could only escape in detachments, and their heavier material of war would of necessity be left behind. The success of any of these movements depends on Gen Burnside's fortunes on the Rappahannock. If he wins the rebellion will be reduced to the defensive and its ultimate extinction will be but a matter of time. If he should be foiled, we must pick our flints and try again. Horace Greeley's "900,000 will be peculiarly acceptable about that time.

But win we must. 'The Union—it must be preserved." We have already shown that we value it at more than a thousand million of dollars and a hundred and fifty thousand lives. The rising spirit of the nation—for the first time finding its true force and capability—says that, The Union must be preserved" if it takes all that remains of wealth or manhood in the loyal States, for dependent on its preservation is the desired answer to the great problem, Is man capable of self government?' If derelict to our duty we should give up the contest then all those generous men who have died for the Union have died in vain. If we abandon the field then is the insolent boast of the rebels verified that they are our superiors, and all our brethren have fought in vain to prove its falsity—the glories of Donelson and Shiloh of Fair Oaks and Antietam will fade away until the heroism of our brave soldiers will be looked on as the effect of ill directed desperation that left the actors no further trade of manhood.

Turning from the contemplation of such an inglorious termination to the war for the maintenance of the Union, we can for the first time, feel a reasonable hope that success is near at hand—that after the doubts and fears of two years, light at last dawns on our national affairs.

FIRE IN CORVALLIS.—From a hasty note received last evening from a friend in Corvallis, we learn that the livery stables of R. C. Simmons & H. C. Riggs, together with Beatty's livery and market and Holder's blacksmith shop in that town, were entirely destroyed by fire on Wednesday night last. The entire absence of any wind was the only thing that saved the principal portion of the town from being burned. The fire is estimated at $6,000. Supposed to be the work of an incendiary. Three men have been arrested on suspicion.

SPECIAL DISPATCH TO THE MORNING OREGONIAN.

LATER FROM THE EAST.

Cairo, Nov. 27th.—A dispatch from the Memphis Bulletin, dated the 25th, says that the Confederates under Price, Van Dorn and Lovell, numbering 40,000 men, are encamped on the Tallahatchie river, and are fortifying their position. Their cavalry, under Forrest, Wheeler and Wirt Adams, are scouring the country between the Tallahatchie and the Mississippi Central Railroad, destroying the track and burning the bridges. Their object is to cut off Grant's supplies, and force him to fall back. Grant's army is in good condition, and is confident of success.

New York, Nov. 27th.—The Herald's Washington dispatch says that Gen Rosecrans has ordered Gen Stanley to march with his division to Nashville, and Gen Granger to Murfreesboro. Gen Rosecrans will then move with the remainder of his army on Chattanooga, and the third in supply line to the Charleston and Memphis railroad.

New York, Nov. 27th.—Information has been received that the rebel General Hardee, with 15,000 men, is marching from Vicksburg to reinforce Bragg, and that Gen Grant will attack Vicksburg before Hardee can return.

The Richmond Examiner of the 24th says that Gen Lee is there, and that his army is in excellent condition, and in a state of high discipline. It also says that Gen Longstreet is determined to dispute the passage of the river by our army.

There is not the slightest doubt but that the enemy is in great force on the Rappahannock river. They are equal if not superior in numbers to our own in point of artillery. It is believed that our army will not fall short of 12,000 men. Their camp fires are visible ten miles back from the river, and at least we think it is the force.

Cairo, Nov. 27th.—Incendiaries are trying to burn the city of Memphis. Sunday night there were ten different fires, and Monday night fourteen, showing that a concerted movement to destroy the city did not alarm exists.

New York, Nov. 28th.—The Times Washington dispatch says the current talk yesterday in military circles was in regard to the expeditions of the army of the Potomac going into winter quarters. Late events seem to have strengthened the probabilities of such a policy being adopted, and inferences to the same effect are drawn from the President's visit to Aquia Creek.

Reports to-day in regard to the movements of Stonewall Jackson are as contradictory as ever.

San Francisco, Nov. 28th.—The annual contract for service in Washington Territory has been let to P. Keach. Ocean service not let.

From Panama.

Panama dates are to the 11th of November. In the late battle, which resulted in a victory for the Mosquera Government the Centralists lost 500 men killed, 1,600 prisoners, and a great portion of their arms. Heraldo was killed. Three thousand men of the defeated army fled towards Antioquia. The small force at this place laid down their arms on the approach of General Mosquera with 4,000 troops. The war is ended by the complete triumph of Mosquera. Panama was quiet and Mosquera was expected to arrive there.

An American rebel sympathizer displayed a Secession flag from a private box in the theater of Carthagena, an attache of the Elite United States Consulate pulled down the flag and threw it in the face of the rebel. A fight ensued, and blood was spilled before the police interfered.

A Valparaiso correspondent mentions that the British Bark Pelican, from Liverpool for Callao, with clothing and goods for the army was lost in a tempest on Wood Island in latitude 58 28 S., longitude 69 40 W. on the 19th of August last. The crew were picked up in their boats, near Cape Good Success, nearly starved, by the American bark Schamyl, and taken to Valparaiso, two having died. Nothing was saved from the vessel.

Ecuador is threatened with filibuster invasions from Peru.

The Lima papers publish accounts of shipwrecks of American, Italian and other vessels on the southern coast during the late tempest.

La Paz the principal city of Bolivia had surrendered to Gen Adan the Provisional President.

The scheme to colonize emancipated slaves in Bolivia was considered a failure.

In Chile increased duties had been assessed on cotton and cotton goods.

The American schooner Eliza Jones had been lost on the coast of Patagonia. The crew were saved. They walked fifty four miles without food.

LUDICROUS RECEPTION OF PARSON BROWNLOW AT GRAND RAPIDS.—Parson Brownlow recently visited Grand Rapids, Michigan, and a Committee appointed to receive him were promptly at the depot in full dress with an omnibus to greet the Parson and convey him to the hotel. As the cars came in, says the Detroit Press, the Committee formed itself into a semicircle on the platform near the track, the Chairman, a short Pumblechook sun sort of a man, standing in the center speech in hand ready to pour upon the Parson as soon as he appeared. About the first man to alight was Parson Brownlow but as the Committee didn't happen to know him from "any other man," he was allowed to pass quietly to the rear. Shortly a well dressed gentleman appeared, with a servant bearing his valise when the Committee made up to him and the Chairman at once began to read his 'eloquent address' but was dumbfounded by the stranger remarking that he was not Parson Brownlow, but an agent for Holloway's pills. The Parson, who had been looking on, then introduced himself and suggested that they had better go to the hotel and he would listen to the address there and the Committee huddled into the omnibus glad to hide their confusion.

CHANGE OF ROUTE.—On account of the announcement of the difficulties on the Nicaragua Transit Route, the steamer of the People's line will hereafter connect with the Panama Railroad. The first trip under the new arrangement is announced. The Western Belle will leave San Francisco on Thursday December 11th. The Emeline will receive the passengers at Aspinwall. These steamers are swift and commodious, and it is calculated that the trip will be made by this line in twenty two days.—Lancaster

COURT.—Mr Jones the expressman, informs us that the weather is very cold in the upper country and that it is rapidly making in the Columbia. On the trip he was yesterday the wheel of the steamer was covered with ice, and the probabilities are that in a very few days the boats will be compelled to lay up.—Monitor

Among those drafted in Western Pennsylvania was Robert Carpenter of Mount Pleasant township in the same individual who, but a few weeks since outraged the public feeling there by parading through the village with the national emblem pinned to his shirt tail.

The Daily Oregonian.

CITY.

The MORNING OREGONIAN has a larger SUBSCRIPTION LIST than any other Daily published in this City.

COMMISSIONER'S COURT.—The Board of County Commissioners were in session yesterday at the Court House. The principal business done was the hearing of petitions for alterations and locations of county roads, and the adjustment of claims against the county. A large number of bills were ordered paid and more are expected to be presented before the session closes. Nothing of any special importance came up during the day, beyond the usual routine of business.

PEOPLE'S TRANSPORTATION LINE.—The following named gentlemen were elected officers of the People's Transportation line, yesterday at a meeting of stock holders, viz.—Stephen Coffin, President; C. S. Kingsley, Vice-President; A. C. R. Shaw, Treasurer and Thomas H. Smith, Secretary. We understand that a Constitution and By Laws were adopted and everything necessary for a full, complete and permanent organization was completed, and the Company are now preparing to put the line in operation as quick as possible. It is confidently asserted that by the first of March next, if not sooner, a through line to Lewiston will be in successful operation, equal in every respect, and superior in some, to the old line.

ECLIPSE OF THE MOON.—Many citizens were out last night taking a view of Madame Luna as she appeared full veiled. It was truly a grand sight, and presented quite a lesson for the student in Astronomy. The eclipse began about nine minutes before ten o'clock, and lasted three hours and forty nine minutes. It became total one hour and nine minutes after the beginning, and remained so for one hour and thirty two minutes, after which she gradually unveiled herself, and finally appeared as bright and beautiful as ever.

ATHENIAN SOCIETY.—We learn that this association have rented a suitable and convenient room for a library, and have already secured about 500 volumes of interesting and useful works for the use of the Society. We are pleased to see the determined and highly commendable resolution of several young gentlemen connected with this Society, to surmount all difficulties and build up an institution of this kind which will be a lasting monument of credit and honor to themselves and the city.

'MORRISON'S PAN-TEC-NA-THEC-A'.—This famed Panorama of American scenery and voyage across the Atlantic, scenes in Europe and many wonderful and delightful pictures of the works of nature and art, probably surpassing anything of the kind ever before exhibited in this city, will be on exhibition at the Willamette Theatre on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings next.—From testimonials shown us, we have reason to believe that this exhibition will be highly attractive and well worth going to see. We are further informed that many elegant and valuable presents will be given away to the most lucky visitors each evening, which, together with the sights to be seen, will undoubtedly have the effect to crowd the house to overflowing. Go in everybody.

The Hunt brought down last evening from Cascades 65 horses and 10 head of cattle. Wells, Fargo & Co. secured only a small amount of dust from the mines. The weather is reported to be quite cold in the mining region, which has stopped mining operations to a considerable extent. We cannot expect to hear of very large receipts of dust until warm weather comes again.

HOLIDAY PRESENTS.—The holidays will soon be here, and now is the time to look around for something nice and appropriate to present to a friend or dear—somebody. Goldsmith Bros. have just the nicest presents you ever saw, suitable for such purposes. Take a look at them, on the corner of Alder and Front streets.

White's Patent Lever Trusses.—These instruments are recommended to the public as the best ever yet ingented. The principle is new and different from any other. The Pad works over a Knuckle giving it a circular INWARD and UPWARD motion thus being able to support the rupture with half the pressure required by other Trusses. The pain consequent upon heavy pressure is thereby avoided.

These instruments will not rust, and are the lightest, most durable and most cleanly of all others. They can be washed at pleasure. Many persons have been cured by them of ruptures of several years standing.

LADD, WEBSTER & CO'S FAMILY SEWING MACHINES

ARE SPECIALLY ADAPTED FOR

BEAUTY AND SIMPLICITY OF CONSTRUCTION

—AND—

Efficiency in Working.

A GOOD SEWING MACHINE

SHOULD BE WELL MADE—simple in its construction and easily learned—it should make a firm and handsome stitch—use the best of thread, silk or twist—sew with the same facility and rapidity backwards as forwards—and do all sewing, from the finest to the coarsest fabrics that can be sewed.

It should use but one thread—silk should not be used from the spool—it should sew in concert to direct, and from the bobbin—both regulated and changed, if necessary—but little trouble to make the tension right—the thread from the under and upper threads in such a manner as to hide both threads in the centre of the seam—it should have a stop motion—this is also of the utmost importance.

The needle should have a perpendicular motion—this is also of the utmost importance.

It should be of the best steel—with a long eye—a long shank—and with a point to run well, gather and shed well—always sewing alike.

It should be capable of using the same size thread on both needle and shuttle—thus avoiding the trouble of using different colored thread—silk of the right size to correspond with any two colors united.

It should be able to make a long or short stitch, and to fasten off the seam at the commencement, right at the first stitch and to run easily and make but little noise.

It should have a wheel feed, no others are in common use—as they do the best work.

It should not be liable to get out of order, neither should it require a screw driver or wrench to set the needle.

It should not be liable to oil the operator's dress.

It should not form a ridge on the under side, nor travel.

NEWSPAPERARCHIVE®

How often here those things we seek
Bring loss instead of looked for gain;
How oft by friends we're called to weep,
And taught that earthly joys are vain.

But thus it cannot be above;
There, joy divine shall fill each heart,
And that real good, which here we love,
The years can never from us part.

And so, though sorrow's skies may lower,
Our faith should still forecast the years,
And we anticipate the hour
When God shall wipe away our tears.

In that bright world beyond the skies,
Where love's sweet ties are never riven,
And where our songs with theirs shall rise,
Who fasten on before to Heaven.

The Abuse of Coffee and Tea.

Too much is said against tea by wise people, and too much tea is given to the sick by foolish people. When you see the natural and almost universal craving of the sick for their "tea," you can not but feel that nature knows what she is about. But a little tea or coffee restores them quite as much as a great deal, and a great deal of tea, and especially of coffee, impairs the little power of digestion they have. Let the nurse, because she sees how one or two cups of tea or coffee restores her patient, thinks that three or four will do twice as much. This is not the case at all; it is, however, certain that there is nothing yet discovered which is a substitute to the patient for his cup of tea; he can take it when he can take nothing else, and he often can not take anything else if he has it not. Sleeplessness in the early part of the night is from excitement, generally, and is increased by tea or coffee; sleeplessness which continues to the early morning, is from exhaustion, often, and is relieved by tea.

In general, the dry and dirty tongue always prefers tea to coffee, and will quite decline milk unless with tea. Coffee is a better restorative than tea, but a greater impairer of digestion. Let the patient's taste decide. You will say that, in cases of great thirst, the patient's craving decides that it will drink a great deal of tea, and that you cannot help it. But in these cases be sure that the patient requires diluents for other purposes than quenching thirst; he wants a great deal of some drink, not only of tea, and the doctor will order that he is to have barley-water, or lemonade, or soda-water and milk, as the case may be. Lehmann, quoted by Dr. Christison, says that among the well and active, "the infusion of an ounce of roasted coffee daily will diminish the waste" going on in the body "by one-fourth;" and Dr. Christison adds that tea has the same property. Now, this is actual experiment. Lehmann weighs the man and finds the fact from his weight. It is not deducted from any "analysis" of food. All experience among the sick shows the same thing. Cocoa is often recommended to the sick in lieu of tea and coffee.

Thoughts Essential to Health.

If we would have our bodies healthy, our brains must be used, and used in orderly and vigorous ways that the life-giving streams of force may flow down from them into the expected organs, which can minister but as they are ministered unto. We admire the vigorous animal life of the Greeks, and with justice we recognize, and partially seek to imitate, the various gymnastic and other means which they employed to secure it. But probably we should make a fatal error if we omitted from our calculation the hearty and generous earnestness with which the highest subjects of art, speculation and politics were pursued by them. Surely, in their case, the beautiful and energetic mental life was expressed in the athletic and and graceful frame. And were it a mere extravagance to ask whether some part of the lassitude and weariness of life, of which we hear so much in our day, might be due to lack of mental occupation on worthy subjects, exciting and repaying a generous enthusiasm, as well as to an over exercise on low ones, whether an engrossment on matters which have not substance enough to satisfy or justify the mental grasp, but not at the root of some part of maladies which affect our convalescence? And one who tries it, soon finds out how disproportionately exhausted is an over-dose of "light literature," compared with an equal amount of time spent on real work. Of this we may be sure, that the due exercise of brain—of thought—is one of the essential elements of human life. The perfect health of a man is not the same as that of an ox or horse. The predominating capacity of his nervous parts demand a corresponding life.

Cleanliness.

Compare the dirtiness of the water in which you have washed, when it is cold, without soap, cold with soap, hot with soap. You will find that the first has hardly removed any dirt at all, the second a little more, and the third a great deal more. But hold your hand over a cup of hot water for a minute or two, and then, by merely rubbing with the finger, you bring off dirt or flakes of dirty skin. After a vapor-bath, you may peel your whole self clean in this way. What I mean is, that by simply washing or sponging with water you do not really clean your skin.

Take a rough towel, dip one corner in very hot water—if a little spirits is added it will be more effectual—and then rub as if you were rubbing the towel into your skin with your fingers. The black flakes which will come off will convince you that you were not clean before, however much soap and water you may have used. These flakes are what require removing. And you can really keep yourself cleaner with only a tumberful of hot water and a rough towel and rubbing, than a whole apparatus of bath, and soap and sponge without rubbing. It is quite nonsense to say that any body need be dirty. Patients have been kept as clean, by these means, on a long voyage, when a basin full of water could not be afford, and when they could not be removed out of their berths, as if all the appurtenances of home had been at hand.

Washing, however, with a large quantity has quite other effects than those of mere cleanliness. The skin absorbs the water, and becomes softer and more perspirable. To wash with soap and soft water is, therefore, desirable from other points of view than that of cleanliness.

Variety.

Kind words are the flowers of benevolence; kind deeds the fruit.

If a man is not satisfied with a little, it is very certain he will never have enough.

The man who tried to sweeten his tea with one of his wife's smiles, has fallen back on sugar.

Cuvier said that mankind was composed of hammers and anvils, and that it was much better to be a hammer than an anvil.

At Lynn, the other day, a Sunday School teacher asked a little girl who the first man was. She answered that she didn't know. The question was then put to an Irish child, who answered, "Adam, sir," with apparent satisfaction.

"La!" said the first scholar, "you need not feel so grand about it—he wasn't an Irishman."

Old Billy Trenton stopped drinking and joined the temperance society; but one day he took just a drop and fell off his wagon into the mud, where a neighbor finding him, asked: "Why, Uncle Billy, is this you?"

"No, it ain't Uncle Bill," was the reply. "He quit drinking more'n a year ago, and this 'ere chap's drunk as a beast."

Franklin had the best idea of death of any we know. Writing upon the death of an intimate acquaintance, he says: "Our friend and we are going upon a party of pleasure; his carriage was first, and he is off. We shall soon follow in turn in good time." When did sensible people ever hear such beautiful sentiments from a pulpit? The fact is, the great majority of priests do not believe in it themselves.

In one of the English colonies a competitive examination was lately made for the purpose of appointing fit persons to some of the government offices. One of the candidates inadvertently spelled the word Venice with two "n's"—thus, Vennice. The examiner, a clever man, but not always a correct speaker, sternly inquired:

"Do you not know, sir, that there is but one hen in Venice?"

"Then hoggs must be very scarce there," was the ready reply.

A tourist in his rambles once met with the celebrated Walton, seated on the arm of a tree, rod in hand. "Well, Izaac, what are you doing in that dangerous place?" he inquired.

"Fiffin," was the reply.

"Fishing, you mean?" said the first.

"Yiff," and Walton closed his lips more tightly.

"What have you in your mouth, Izaac?" asked the gentleman.

Walton, emptying his mouth into the ball of his hand, replied: "Nothing but worms for the bait."

A certain deacon called Higley, used to "trade horses" at Berkshire cattle market. Stirred up by the preaching of his minister, he, one Sunday "after meeting," thus communicated to one Brown of the church and of the craft: "You don't suppose them little stories—sort o' lies like—that you and I tell in way o' trade, will be reckoned agin us in the day o' judgment. Circumstanced as we are, we can't help it, you know. I don't s'pose it makes no difference with the Lord, long's the heart's all right, brother Brown." And brother Brown went home comforted.

Contentment produces, in some measure, all those effects which the alchemist usually ascribes to what he calls the philosopher's stone; and if it does not bring riches, it does the same thing by banishing the desire of them. If it cannot succeed in removing the disquietudes arising from a man's mind, body, or fortune, it makes him easy under him.

A man being asked, on a late trial, for a certificate of his marriage, took off his hat and exhibited a huge scar, which looked as though it had been made with a fire-shovel. The evidence was satisfactory.

Here are some simple remedies for every prevalent disorder, which we have no hesitation in recommending as infallible. Try them:

For sea-sickness, stay on land.
For drunkenness, drink cold water.
For health, rise early.
For accidents, keep out of danger.
To keep out of trouble, pay your debts.
To be happy, be honest.
To please all, mind your own business.
To make money, advertise.
To do right and have a good conscience, subscribe for a paper and pay in advance.

"VATICAN."—Many who see this word may not understand its import. It is a pile of buildings covering a space of 1200 feet in length by 1000 in breadth on one of the seven hills in Rome. The site was once in the garden of barbarous Nero. Early in the 16th century the Bishop of Rome erected there an humble dwelling. This has been added to by one Pope after another, until now it is one of the most spacious and magnificent palaces, stocked with paintings, statues, books and antiquities of the rarest kind.

TO CLEAN GREASE FROM FLOORS.—Spread over the stain a thick coat of soft soap, then pass a heated flat iron a few times across it, after which wash immediately with clear warm water. I'll warrant you, after this treatment, it will never show its vile face again.

RENOVATING OLD WALL PAPER.—The prudent housewife who, on account of "hard times," has decided not to re-paper the sitting-room, as desirous, will find the old paper much improved in appearance by simply rubbing it well with a flannel cloth dipped in Indian meal.

"I never shot a bird in my life," said one friend to another, who replied:

"I never shot anything in the shape of a bird but a squirrel, which I killed with a stone, when it fell into the river and was drowned."

CONSTITUTIONALITY OF EMANCIPATION AS A WAR MEASURE.—Theophilus Parsons, President of the Cambridge, (Mass.) Law School, answers some arguments recently put forth by Judge Curtis, late of the United States Supreme Court, against the right under the Constitution, of the President to proclaim Emancipation. We append the main points made by Mr. Parsons, which we think are unanswerable:

I am sure that the President has no power to emancipate a single slave, as a civil, political or administrative act.

Was it expedient? I leave this question to the President. For he is honest, he is capable, he has considered the question long, carefully and painfully, and in all the relations in which it can present itself. However wise I may be, or Judge Curtis may be on this subject, the President is wiser, or all rules of probability fail.

I have not the slightest doubt of his constitutional power, as Commander-in-Chief, to issue this proclamation as a military act.

If Halleck, when before Corinth, might have sent a force a hundred miles to catch and bring into his lines a hundred negroes with the wagons horses and provisions they were bringing to Beauregard, the President and Commander-in-Chief sitting in the center, with wider views, wider necessities, and wider rights to meet those necessities, may, if he can, by the danger of insurrection, or of starvation, or of loss of property, dishearten the rebels, and drive their armies home.

To say otherwise would be to say that he might strike at rebellion, but he must be very careful not to strike away its cornerstone.

Can he do it in fact? This question touches the expediency of the measure, and this I leave to him. But it does not touch his military right to threaten it, and do it if he can.

Judge Curtis speaks much and eloquently of the President's right to inflict "penalty" and "punishment," and the rights of the rebels to the protection of the law.

Rebellion has no rights. If rebellion means anything, it means the renunciation and destruction of all law. And, therefore, it is accursed before God and man.

No rebel has any right, a regard to which should weaken or obstruct any military measure needed to subdue the rebellion.

Judge Curtis' argument would give the Constitution and the law to the rebels, as their sword to smite and their shield to save them, and leave it to us only as a fetter.

Then he tells us the innocent must suffer with the guilty. This is true, and it is sad. But when the mingled fire and hail of God's vengeance run along the ground, they pursue no devious path that they may leave the homes of the innocent unharmed; for when national sins bring national calamities, the innocent suffer with the guilty. This may be one of the mysteries of Providence; it is, at all events, a fact. And what has been will be.

A JUDICIAL WAY.—Judge Norton was solemn, stern, and dignified to excess. He was also all at once egotistical and sensitive to ridicule. Judge Nelson was a wit, careless of decorum, and had a sharp voice. He did not like Judge Norton. At a bar supper, Judge Norton, in an elaborate speech, referring to the early days of Wisconsin, the rude practice of that period, and the discomforts of a profession in that country, described in a tragic manner a thunderstorm which once overtook him in riding the old circuit.

"It was a night in the forest; the scene was awful, and," said the Judge, "I expected every moment the lightning would strike the tree under which I had taken shelter."

"Why, then," interrupted Nelson, in his peculiar squeal, "why in thunder, did'nt you get under another tree?"

BE KIND TO YOUR SISTERS.—Boys, be kind to your sisters. You may live to be old, and never find such tender, loving friends as these sisters. Think how many things they do for you; how patient they are with you; how they love you in spite of your ill temper or rudeness, how thoughtful they are for your comfort; and be you thoughtful for theirs. Be ever ready to oblige them, to perform any little office for them that lies in your power. Think what you can do for them, and if they express a wish, be ready to gratify it, if possible.—You do not know how much happiness you will find in so doing. I never knew a happy, respectable man who was not in his youth kind to his sisters.

The Markets.

There are no changes to note in our market report this week, prices remaining about the same as last week. Trade has fallen off somewhat from the Upper Columbia. The demand for bacon, wheat, oats, barley, eggs, and ample produce generally, is still great, though the price has not advanced since last noting. The Sierra Nevada arrived during the week with a heavy cargo of freight, and several vessels are reported off the Bar and in the river for this city, some of which are said to be freighted with wheat and produce.
